MARKET STRATEGY: EVENTS ARE MOVING QUICKLY TOWARD A MARKET CLIMAX

42

The market has plummeted over 50 points on the Dow-Jones Industrials since our last advisory and this tells you a lot about what's ahead. The final downleg of a bear market is almost always marked by sharp declines and despair bordering on panic about the economic outlook. So look around:

--Congress came back from vacation almost paranoid about punishing those nasty Wall Streeters for not falling in line behind the Reagan tax package.

--Bonds are selling at a big premium over the inflation rate because there's real risk that strung-out companies could go belly up if rates stay high.

--Initial market reactions to an event is almost always wrong (remember last November's Reagan rally which hasn't been matched).

In this climate the property owning REITs are the best bet because earnings aren't vulnerable to rates, they pay good dividends, and takeover hopes buoy prices (Example: RAMPAC is up about 10% because the British Coal Board, loser in the bidding war for ConnGen, bought 5% of shares).

Workout trusts are weaker because they generally pay no dividend. But some real values may surface among the cheapies as the market sinks.

Homebuilders remain vulnerable for reasons outlined last issue. Until the air clears, we'd avoid most issues in this group.

The list continues to change as companies and REITs liquidate or are acquired. This Quarterly Review deletes eight names from the June 12 quarterly and adds eight new stocks. Their reviews are commended because they may be unfamiliar to you. Also this marks the final review for Flatley Realty (voted to liquidate) and First Newport (to be acquired by Coldwell Banker).
